BACKGROUND

After graduating from Berklee College of Music in 1987 with a degree in Music Production & Engineering, Tony moved to LA and began a career as a multi-instrumentalist, audio engineer, and composer. His first big break was working for Mike Post Productions, which branched into Westwind Media. He then became an independent music editor and music producer, working for Carsey-Werner Productions. His work-life has taken him into the worlds of Broadway musicals, record production, and education, from Los Angeles to New York. Tony now focuses on music editorial here with the talented team at MICDI Productions, where his vast skills are a great asset when working with clients of episodic television and movies.
